Notes for Samuel Pleasant Harris:

At one time he was a school teacher. He was also keeping books for the businessman Abe Dickerson, who was operating a store in the young community of Stewartsville. While he was doing this, Samuel was considering getting into the business himself. So, he entered into a partnership with a Tom Bowles in 1890, and they built a new store where the cross roads meet in Stewartsville. The partnership was short-lived, because Samuel got married and purchased an old house and attached abandoned store, in 1893, across the street from his partnership.

In 1898, some Baptists gathered to establish the Barnhardt Baptist Church, which was completed in 1899, built on land donated by J. W. Meador. Samuel was one of those instrumental in establishing this church.

In 1899, Samuel had hired some men to build him a new larger store, than the previous one he collaborated with Mr. Bowles, which was across the street. He also accepted the new post office into his place of business.

He was a charter member of the Beaver Dam Odd Fellow Lodge in Stewartsville, which began in may 1903.

About 1910, he purchased one acre along the Virginia Railroad, about three miles from the town, for mail to be delivered to what became known as Stewartsville Station, where he moved the post office to, to operate from. He became more successful as he developed a telephone exchange in his store and home. His daughter Mary, became the switch board operator.

In 1915, he died and the telepone exchange was taken over by the Drewry family nearby. He, his wife Sophronia, and two children, Bertha and Samuel R., are buried in the Barnhardt Baptist Church Cemetery in Stewartsville, Bedford Co, VA.

Fred was a farmer as Claytor Brooks indicates in his book. He writes about Fred having a cow getting sick and down, and its tail had to be split to help it heal. Medicine was poured into the opening made in the tail. Fred was said to be one of the wittiest men around in his day. It is said when he went to Belle's father to ask for her hand in marriage, he said to Mr. Overstreet, "Well, Mr. Overstreet, I reckon you know what me and Belle are fixin to do?" Mr. Overstreet responded by saying "No, Fred. I don't know. What are you and Belle fixin to do?" Fred's response: "By jigs, we're fixing to get married, and want to know what in the hell you got to say about it?"

A year or two after their marriage, Fred joined the church and became quite religious. The next year, 1895, was very dry. He is said to have knelt down praying for rain. He is quoted as saying: "Oh Lord, send us a nice refreshing shower. We don't want one-of-them hell bending gully washers."
